Subject: NVC: World Education IET Resources

Dear Colleagues,

I am pleased to share the following IET resources from our colleagues at World Education. Please click on the links provided for additional information.

IET Resources from World Education:

Integrated Education and Training: Implementing Programs in Diverse Contexts

This free guide shares how eight IET programs from around the country have been integrating education and training. Many of the programs have been around since long before the federal Workforce Investment and Innovation Act (WIOA) and are making adjustments to conform to the new requirements; others are using WIOA as an opportunity to forge new workforce collaborations. The program profiles highlight the importance of designing programming that fits the particular context of a local community – both its opportunities and constraints. From this array of IET programs – new and well established, rural and urban, ABE and ESOL – we hope this guide provides inspiration and models to adult educators as they plan or strengthen their own IET programs.

The Nuts and Bolts of Designing IET Programs: Models, Tools and Tips for Success

Sunday, Nov. 12, 1 pm - 6 pm & Monday, Nov. 13, 8:30 am - 12:30 pm

This interactive Institute, presented by the National College Transition Network at World Education and the Institute for the Study of Adult Literacy, focuses on three themes that are key to successful Integrated Education and Training (IET) program planning and implementation in the context of WIOA:

- IET program design considerations and options
- Partnerships with training providers, employers, and social supports
- Basic skills curriculum development for IET programs.
